

Adorney, Thom Bio
Master Artist

With my photography, I try to capture those exquisite moments in the natural world and of human creativity.

I love photographing musicians and performing artists when they are merged in creating, then turning my camera on their audience in the joy of responding.

My approach to nature photography is to elevate the unobserved, those beautiful elements that we tend to pass by. When shooting landscapes, I look for a different approach from which to portray what may otherwise be familiar.
