

Bechler, Audrey
Artist Bio

In a world increasingly characterized by fragmentation of the spirit, where greed and power corrupt what is natural and sacred in our lives, the paintings of Audrey Bechler present simple gifts and serve as reminders that all is not lost; that what is natural and vibrant still lives within our beings. One is healed by the grace of her paintings. Audrey's work shows you a world of harmony, a world that she is deeply connected to and appreciative of. Audrey Bechler is a sensitive, emotional, caring person, who adds quality of life to society. Her art is a reflection of her life." – Jane Sleeper

Bechler's education includes the Museum School of Fine Arts, Boston, MA, Tufts University (BS in Education, 1958), and a traveling scholarship (Studied in Europe for a year) She has taught watercolor classes (1969-Present), worked at the Art Institute of Boston (1967-1968), taught art in Boston Public Schools (1964-1966) and designed greeting cards for Rust Craft. Bechler has a membership to the Newburyport Art Association, Roundtop Center for the Arts, Saltwater Artists, and the Maine Art Gallery.