

About Jennifer Boisvert

Jen Boisvert is a native North Shore Artist who explores visual interpretations and merges relationships between humans and nature. Her sculpture creates a visual dialogue for the viewer to develop their intuitive conclusions. The dialogue between artwork and viewer becomes an intimate catalyst to finding immediate connections with the earth and ourselves through various sculptural works. She uses shapes found in nature and connects them with internal and external human anatomical shapes. The process in the content of the artwork creates a language of the human form collaborating with the natural environment on earth. The undercurrent and thread in the art connects a river of consciousness of humans viscerally tied with the earth. Less

Education: She is a graduate of Montserrat College of Art with B.F.A. in sculpture and recipient of the senior fine arts award and a graduate of Plymouth State University with M.Ed in early elementary education and Montessori pedagogy.
