

Barbara Kremer is a Massachusetts watercolor artist who primarily paints landscapes of the New England area. She was a teacher of English as a Second Language, a school director, and an adjunct faculty member at North Shore Community College. Although she has always loved teaching, painting became her passion from the moment she picked up paint and brush.

Barbara paints year-round but is a three-season plein air painter. "The challenge of painting en plein air is both creatively and emotionally inspiring and allows me to enter a zone where I become totally immersed in nature, the environment, and my painting." This freedom translates into a feeling of spontaneity in her work.
