

Nella grew up in southern Italy in the region of Puglia between the ubiquitous olive groves and the Adriatic Sea. From a very early age she was surrounded by her family's love for the arts, from visual to music to poetry, it became part of her existence and never left her. Nella maintains that her life in Italy shaped her into the artist she now is. She is a full time artist and exhibits widely in galleries in the US and abroad in England and Italy.

Nella is the founder of the Experimental Group or Rockport Association and Museum, and the President of the Massachusetts Chapter of the National Association of Women Artists, Inc. NYC. She is a signature member and NorthEast representative of the American Society of Marine Artists.

Through the years her art continues to change as her emotional perceptions change. Nella's art, more and more, is a reflection of her emotions of the moment.
