Photography

SKIP MONTELLO is a sport fishing charter captain, photographer and outdoor writer working and living in Rockport (Cape Ann) Massachusetts. His interest in photography developed during his career at the Polaroid Corporation. He spent more than 30 years at Polaroid as a photographic scientist, engineer and technology leader. Some of his photo microscopy works earned him several significant awards in the world wide Nikon Small World photography competition. Over the years he has moved from film based media to digital. His current photography interests are varied but tend toward seascapes, landscapes and nature. He enjoys working with video slide show software creating stimulating online slideshows set to a variety of music genre. Skip is an exhibiting photography member of the Rockport and Newburyport Art Associations and the Rocky Neck Art Colony.

Artists Statement: For me, digital photography (camera and software) bridges the gap between traditional photography (camera and darkroom) with Art (brush and canvas) creating a stimulating new art form. Skip is an exhibiting photography member of the Rockport Art Association Newburyport Art Association, Rocky Neck Art Colony and seArts.
