

Paul Osborne & Catherine Davis

We work together photographing the beauty of nature. We are continually surprised and inspired by the grandeur of vast space as well as the amazing and beautiful details of rocks, plants, flowers, fruit and shells. Our work includes expansive panoramas of wild places as well as intimate portraits. In this time of great change, we invite our viewers to accompany us in exploring and experiencing our deep human connection to this world around us.

Their photographs have been exhibited in the Hubbard Museum of the American West in New Mexico and in Europe as part of the Austrian and Special Themes Super Circuit. Their work appears in the Best of Photography Annual and has won awards from the National Photo Awards. They are members of several arts associations and their work has been exhibited in many juried exhibitions and in numerous galleries. Their images are also part of various corporate collections including the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute.
